〔長文を読み取り、まとまりのある文章を書こう〕

Long ago, there was a boy who lived in a town in Britain. His name was Howard Kelly. His family was very poor, so he had to work to help his parents.

One day, the boy went out to sell goods from door to door. After he visited some houses, he got very hungry. He didn't have enough money to buy food, so he decided to ask for some food at a house.

The boy knocked at the door. Then a young woman opened the door. She said, "Can I help you?" He was too surprised and ① embarrassed because the woman was young and very beautiful. He couldn't ask for food. "Can I have.... some water, please?" he said. The boy looked very hungry, so she brought a large glass of milk. He was very surprised to see the milk. At that time it was very hard to get milk. He drank it slowly, and then asked, "How much should I pay for it?"

"You don't have to. I won't take any money," she answered.

He said, "Thank you very much." The boy felt that his body was getting strong and said goodbye to her.

Years later, that young woman got sick. The doctor in her town found that he couldn't save the woman. ② He sent the woman to the hospital in the big city. Howard Kelly was one of the doctors in the hospital. When he read the letter from the doctor in her town and saw the name of her town, he found that it was his hometown. Then he remembered a lot of things.

When he saw the woman at the hospital, he thought, "Oh, this is that lady. She gave me that milk. I'll help her."

He took good care of her for months, and she got well.

She thanked Dr. Kelly. She was going to go back to her hometown soon.

Dr. Kelly went to the office and said to a clerk, "How much should she pay?" The clerk showed him the bill and said that the bill should be paid next month.

He looked at it, and then wrote something on it. The bill was sent to her room.

It was in an envelope. She was afraid. She thought, "It is a lot of money. I can't pay the bill." She opened the envelope and looked at the bill. She found something on it.

She read these words.

() ③ ()

Then, she remembered that young boy. "Oh, Dr. Kelly is that boy!"
